- The Kingdom is non-institutional and non-territorial...

TAKE OUT – Living as Citizens of God's Kingdom

If your ultimate citizenship is in Christ's "off the map" kingdom, then whenever your earthly kingdom/nation calls upon you to do something that your heavenly kingdom says is wrong, the choice is clear – obey Christ, your King. And Christ calls us to be ready to suffer and die, but never to cause suffering and kill.

Mark 8:34-35; Luke 16:16; John 15:12-14

CONCLUSION – Becoming a Citizen of God's Kingdom

John 3:3; Romans 10:9

HOME CHURCH QUESTIONS

Warming Up...

1. "Sure Jesus said if someone slaps you turn the other cheek. And I would. But if they hit me again, I'd knock 'em flat. After all, I only have two cheeks!" (Said by a popular evangelical preacher who shall remain nameless.) A) What are your thoughts about this sentiment? B) Christians use a variety of tactics to disarm the convicting power of Christ's words in Matthew 5. What are some you have heard or used? C) Why do you think it is so hard for otherwise Bible-believing Christ-followers to believe the Bible and follow Christ on this specific teaching?
2. The Schleithem Confession, written by the first Anabaptists in 1527, states: "Thereby shall also fall way from us the diabolical weapons of violence – such as sword, armour, and the like, and all of their use to protect friends or against enemies – by virtue of the word of Christ: "you shall not resist evil". Talk about it.

Look to the Book...

3. Although peace churches (or pacifists) are united in taking the peace teaching of Jesus seriously and see peace as a means and not just an end goal of Christ, there are different views on how best to live this out. For example, some champion peaceful non-resistance of evil based on Matthew 5:39 (read) which would lead them to be helpful in times of crisis (e.g., dig wells, distribute food and clothing, build shelter, offer medical help, etc.) but not to get directly involved in civil disobedience (sometimes called the classic Anabaptist view). Others champion peaceful resistance (or militant non-violence) based on Romans 12:21 (read) which leads them to be very actively involved in resisting evil systems through non-violent protests, boycotts, and other forms of civil disobedience (sometimes called the neo-Anabaptist view). a) Discuss how each school of thought would use their key Scripture to inform their specific beliefs and tactics. b) Why would these two approaches be considered two wings within the same movement rather than two different Christian movements or schools of thought? c) Which wing of the Christian peace movement are you more drawn to? Why is that? d) How does 1 Peter 2:13-23 inform this discussion?

So What?...

4. Have you noticed any shift in your thinking on the issue of Christian pacifism versus justified violence so far in this series? Why or why not? Under what circumstances, if any, do you think Christians should become violent? On what Scriptural grounds do you base your opinion?
